There is no back door of any kind to the store."

Lawyer Huerstel at once embodied all these denials in an affidavit, which Weber swore to, and on this an aplication was made to Justice Flizimons to vacate the attachment. That was on Sept. 21, but in spite of the denials the motion was denied without costs.

Blocked at every turn by legal machinery, he decided after consultation with his lawyer to seek the aid of the criminal courts. It was then that a warrant for Klein's arrest for perjury was arranged for. It was obtained from Justice Koch in Jefferson Market Court this morning.

The New York landed her passengers, at 8.40 A. M. They left London the same day that the Lucania's passengers did. Although the Lucania passed the New York on the voyage, the slower vessel's bassengers were first to set foot on land. This was owing to the fact that the New York was able to cross the bar while the Lucania had to remain outside waiting for the life.
